What are the GED Test Subjects and how long are the tests?

The GED Test consists of the following five subtests:

- Language Arts/Reading (65 minutes),
- Social Studies (70 minutes),
- Science (80 minutes),
- Language Arts/Writing (2 hours), and
- Mathematics (90 minutes).

The Language Arts/Writing test consists of a multiple choice part and an essay.

The Mathematics test has 2 parts. You may use a calculator provided by the testing center for Part I.

You do not take all 5 subtests at one time. You will schedule a testing session per subject at the testing center.

For more information about the tests go to www.gedtest.org, then click on Information for Test Takers.

What if I don't pass the first time?

GED Testing Service permits GED candidates to test up to three times per subtest, per contract year (January 1 to December 31), based on the number of standard forms available each contract year. For instance, if you do not pass a test the first time, you can take it two more times during the calendar year.

If you're having difficulty passing a test, you may take GED preparation classes at all Oregon community colleges, check out books at the local library, purchase books, or study online. Please see list of study resources on GED homepage.

I started my GED Testing but I never finished. Are my Scores still good?

The GED Testing Service introduced the 2002 GED English Series January 1, 2002. Candidates who tested prior to this date and failed to complete all five tests successfully by December 31, 2001, must retest on the 2002 Series and are required to pay test fees.

What is a "transcript?"

A transcript is a document containing specific information concerning GED testing. It provides name, social security number, birth date, test site, test date, test description, test form, standard score, total score, average score, and, if appropriate, certificate date of issuance and certificate number assigned.

Why would I need a "transcript?"

College admission, college programs, vocational schools, employers, apprenticeship programs, etc. require proof of high school graduation or equivalent certification. Federal loans require proof of high school diploma or GED.

How is a duplicate certificate different from a transcript?

A duplicate certificate is the official state document printed on document paper and affixed with the state seal. The upper portion may be cut to wallet size to provide the bearer with portable information of test scores and certificate number and issuance date. The lower part is the actual certificate and is approximately 8-1/2" by 5-3/4 size.
