

Oregon OSHA

A great place to work

Are you looking for a challenging position in the field of occupational safety and health?

The Oregon Occupational Safety and Health Division (Oregon OSHA) is a division of the Department of Consumer and Business Services (DCBS), the state's largest regulatory agency. Our mission is to advance and improve workplace safety and health for all workers in Oregon.

We are looking for people dedicated to excellent customer service who want their work to benefit the public.

We are committed to working with labor, business, and other government agencies to provide every worker in Oregon a safe and healthful workplace.

Who we hire

We are an equal opportunity affirmative action employer and value multilingual and multicultural skills.

- ◆ Compliance officers – safety and health – inspect workplaces, investigate accidents, provide pre-job conferences to employers, and offer hazard-abatement help to employers who have received citations.
- ◆ Support staff help various safety and health programs with an emphasis on excellent customer service.

- ◆ Consultants – safety, health, and ergonomics – help employers reduce lost-time-accident costs and work with them to make their workplaces safer.
- ◆ Technical specialists write Oregon's occupational safety and health standards, provide technical help, and create innovative safe-practice guides for employers and employees.

Where we work

We have offices in Salem, Portland, Eugene, Medford, Bend, and Pendleton. Some positions require extensive travel within Oregon.

Pay and benefits

We offer a competitive salary and benefits package including a monthly contribution toward health, dental, and vision insurance and a public employees' retirement plan. Other benefits include vacation, sick leave, paid holidays, personal leave, and a deferred compensation program.

Training and advancement

We offer comprehensive training to ensure that our employees have the skills to do their job and stay current in their professional or technical specialties or certifications. We support employees in developing new skills so that they can meet their career objectives within the agency and elsewhere in state government.
