

Trauma Coordinators & Registrars

We have had several users report that they are getting an edit message stating they are missing the last ED vitals, when in fact, they have been entered.

This is happening because you have a blank line in between your sets of vital signs. By deleting that blank line, your problem will be solved.

Note: This may also be true for any of the other data blocks within Trauma one, such as the EMS times or vital signs.

It may be helpful to view your data block in a scrolling window to see exactly what is happening. Below are instructions on how to view and how to delete.

1. To switch from data block to scrolling window view, click on the Icon directly below "Chalkboards" up on the menu bar. The Icon looks like three columns, OR select Edit>Scrolling Window View>Scrolling Window.
2. If you see a blank line between your sets of vital signs, or at the end, place your cursor somewhere in that line, and press CTRL-D. Repeat this process for every blank line you have. In the EMS times area, this is more obvious because there is a "P" in the line, but nothing else.
