SUMMARY

The Mary Rellergert Forestry Education Award is a joint project of the Oregon State University Forestry Education Program and the Oregon Department of Forestry. This year, two outstanding forest educators will be recognized for their contributions to forest education in Oregon.

Following the Award presentation, both winners will profile their work. A handout summarizing the accomplishments of this year's winners will be provided at the meeting.

Mary Rellergert served as the Oregon Department of Forestry's Education Coordinator in the Tillamook State Forest. She was a gifted and passionate forest educator whose work touched the lives of tens of thousands of students and teachers. Her legacy of life-long learning about forests is alive in the exhibits and programs at the Tillamook Forest Center, which she helped to develop. Mary died in February 2004.
